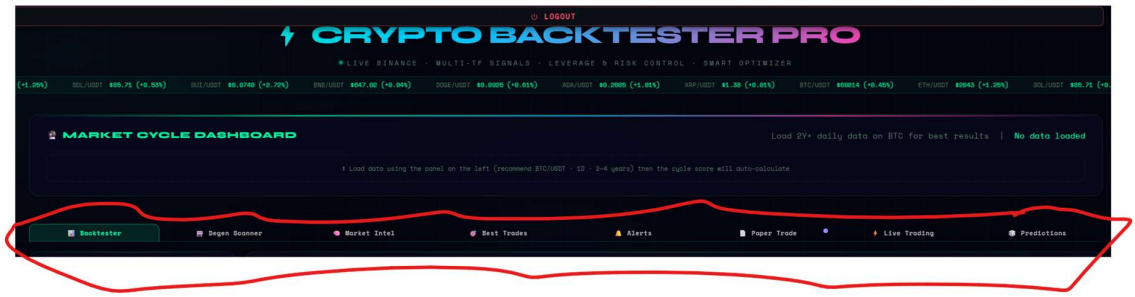
1. These tabs should be bigger so the are easier to see



2.This should include the probability score

3. would be good to have a total running pnl so the user could say they are starting with a $1000 account and they want to put 10% per trade = $100 per trade that would mean they could only run up to 10 trades at a time at the start, but the moment a position closed the profits would compound onto the next trade

4. can we have the option for users to scan for best leverage trades? How will that work in the log and also how will that work when executing the trade to blofin? Also how can we have this as an automated trade set up that as log as the trade hits over a certain % of probability the trade auto puts the trade on for the user?

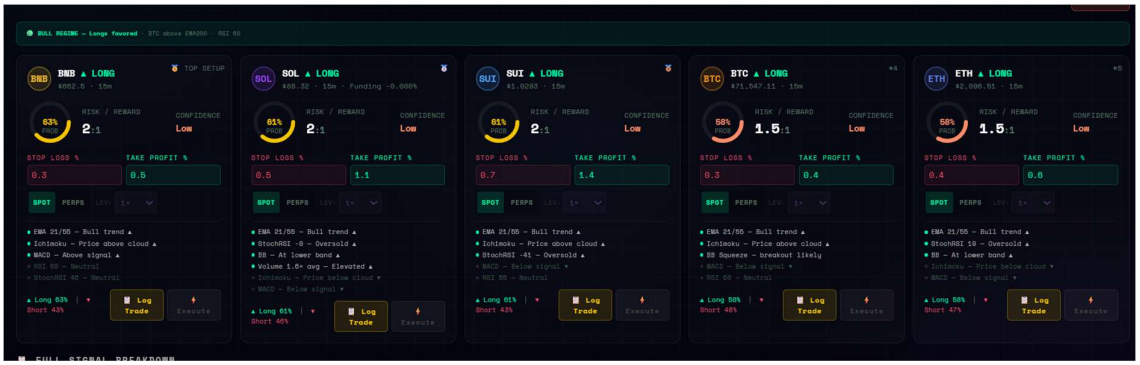
5. shouldn't we have more of Blofins coins here?



6. should we be pulling data in from Blofin rather then binance?